

JUST WED, IS SAVED BY FATHER'S BLOOD

Young Man, Back from Honey-moon Suffering from Typhoid Malaria. Escapes Death by Parent's Sacrifice.

THIRD TRANSFUSION WINS

Surgeons Find Fluid in Veins of Wealthy New Yorker Possesses Qualities Suited to Son's Needs in Crisis of His Illness.

One of the most remarkable operations for the transfusion of blood in medical annals, in which a wealthy New York man put in jeopardy his life to save his son, was performed yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital. The young man, Leithorn Middleton, who is only twenty-five years old, returned a few days ago from his wedding trip, on which he was seized with a grave form of typhoid malaria. His condition became alarmingly complicated by hemorrhages of the gums, and later, as the disease progressed, of the nose and ears.

Some of the leading physicians of the city were called in consultation. Their best efforts proved futile, and they gave up hope of saving the young man's life. The patient's uncle, Dr. Bruce, of Trenton, N. J., a physician with a more than state-wide reputation, said his nephew's life might be saved by blood transfusion, provided a subject could be found willing to make the sacrifice whose blood was sufficiently akin to that of the young man, and who could survive a heavy drainage of the vital fluid.

Meets the Surgeons' Tests.

Preparations were made to select a subject. The blood of several applicants was tested, only to be found unavailable, when the young man's father insisted that his blood should be tried. It responded to the tests, and the decision was reached to perform the operation at once.

The condition of the young man was so desperate that he did not respond to the replenishment of his veins. The operation was repeated without more success, but a third time, after the lapse of several hours, a still larger quantity of blood was transfused with marked success, and at the end of the day the doctors agreed that he had a fighting chance for his life.

The father is A. W. Middleton, secretary and treasurer of the Bristol Construction, Mining and Smelting Company, with offices at No. 80 Broadway. His home is at No. 25 Fort Washington avenue. When the family physician and consulting surgeons gave up hope for his son's life he telegraphed to his brother-in-law, Dr. Bruce, to come at once. That was on Saturday morning.

Dr. Bruce boarded the first train for New York. He was already familiar with the history of the case, and on his arrival said that undoubtedly the one expedient was transfusion. Not only had the frequency and persistence of the hemorrhages drained the young man's vitality to the lowest ebb, but it was feared hemorrhage from the brain might set in at any moment and cause immediate death.

The patient was quickly taken to the hospital. Then came the dilemma of obtaining blood of the required qualities. Mr. Middleton, the father, who is fifty years old, said the life of his son, who was only half his age, was twice as valuable as his own, and insisted that if his blood proved suitable it should be drawn upon to the last ounce. From the standpoint of health the elder man was a fit subject, and when the tests showed that the consistency of his blood closely resembled that of his son, there was no further hesitation.

Early yesterday morning Mr. Middleton went to the hospital, accompanied

GRANT GIVES BRIDE NEARLY $4,000,000

By Pre-nuptial Agreement She Comes Into Possession of Practically All Her Husband's Big Fortune.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)

San Diego, Cal., July 20.—On the heels of the announcement that U. S. Grant, son of the former President, had married Mrs. America Workman Will on July 12, it was reported to-day and not denied by those in a position to know that Grant signed a pre-nuptial agreement whereby his wife became the possessor of more than two-thirds of the Grant personal estate, valued at something like $4,000,000. All of it, in fact, save that which was tied up so that Grant could not dispose of it.

This settlement was drawn up, it is understood, by local attorneys acting for Mrs. Grant, two or three days after the issuance of the marriage license, which Grant secured on July 1. Mrs. Grant gets all her husband's estate except a few thousand dollars in cash and the real estate here and in other parts of Southern California.

Under the terms of the agreement she will act with Grant until his death, should she survive him. In case she dies before he does Fred Elms, her son by her first husband, who is still alive, comes into the possession of a large share of the fortune, but the remainder reverts to Grant's children. Should the couple have any children they are provided for in the agreement. Mr. Grant is sixty-one and Mrs. Will-Grant is thirty-five.

It develops that Grant feared court action by his ex-wife, and for that reason kept his second marriage a secret for seven days, until he was ready to leave the city and escape court proceedings, but might keep him here indefinitely.

The dinner arranged last night to stage the announcement of the marriage was a disappointment to Grant. Sixty-five guests had been invited, but only twelve attended, including Mrs. Grant's son, her sister and brother, Grant's youngest son, U. S. Grant, 4th, who is a junior at Harvard the judge who married them and several employees of Grant.

Former admirers of M. J. Grant hired a band and serenaded the party, playing "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town To-night" and "We've All Been There Before" etc., until word was sent to them to stop.

SUNDAY DROWNINGS, 5; 3 MEN DIE TOGETHER

One of Party Gets Beyond His Depth; Others Try to Save Him and All Are Lost.

HELP COMES TOO LATE

Doctors Work Vainly Over Bodies—Many Are Rescued—Two Men Fished Out with Boathooks.

The Sunday drownings in the waters about New York were officially reported last night to be five in number. Three men went under in the Hudson off the Du Pont powder docks, just above Fort Lee, another was drowned in Pelham Bay, and the fifth in the Kill van Kull. The body of a boy who was drowned on Saturday was recovered in the East River off Roosevelt street. There were many rescues and narrow escapes from drowning. Two men were fished out of the water with boathooks at the foot of East 23rd street.

The three who were drowned in the Hudson went in bathing. None of them could swim very well, and when one of them got out beyond his depth the others tried to help him and were unable to regain the shore. Cries for help were heard by persons near the shore but came too late. Captain Harry Lyons of the sloop Willow Brook brought up the bodies with grappling irons. Doctors and others worked over them for an hour without avail. One of the men was identified as George Farley, a coal passer, of the New York Central Railroad, and one of the others as Peter Bruckweld. All three were said to have lived in West New York.

Louis Colucci, twenty-four years old, a piano polisher, of No. 288 East 150th street, was drowned while swimming fifty yards off the shore at Pelham Bay Park. August Brickman and Edward Hogan, camping near the beach, went to the rescue and recovered his body, but the attempts to resuscitate him failed.

Jacob Krushel, twenty-one years old, of No. 829 Cross street, Elizabeth, N. J., was drowned early yesterday morning in the Kill van Kull, when a boat in which he was rowing was run down by a power launch. He could not swim and sank before the men in the other boat could reach him. His body was not recovered, although men dragged the river for several hours yesterday.

Sergeant Mulhall and Policeman Duffy, of Harbor Squad A, patrolling the East River in a launch off Roosevelt street yesterday morning, found the body of a boy clad in bathing trunks. The body was taken to the morgue, where it was later identified as that of Rubin Smith, nineteen years old, of No. 19 Attorney street. The identification was made by the boy's father, who stated that his son had gone swimming Saturday afternoon and had not returned home.

CYCLIST A CRAB'S VICTIM

Sudden Bite Makes Him Fall and Break His Skull.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)

Philadelphia, July 20.—One of the six big crabs which were supposedly secure in a basket tied to the seat of a motorcycle, escaped this evening, crawled up the back of the rider and bit him so badly on the neck that he lost control of his machine, and now lies suffering from a fractured skull in the Episcopal Hospital.

Harold Wilson, of No. 177 Westmoreland street, was returning from Wildwood with the crabs, and had reached Kensington and Lehigh avenues, when one of the largest crabs got out of the basket, crawled up Wilson's back, and bit his neck. The sudden pain so startled Wilson that he lost control of the machine and was thrown on the curb.

FOUR BOMBS IMPERIL HUNDREDS IN HOMES

Many Stores Wrecked in East Side Tenement District and Walls Shattered.

DYNAMITE THE EXPLOSIVE

Occupants of Attacked Houses Dodge Flying Glass and Other Missiles, but None Is Seriously Hurt.

Four bomb outrages, in which hundreds of persons were placed in peril of their lives, were perpetrated in crowded downtown sections of New York yesterday.

Three of the bombs were exploded last night. Much property was damaged, but no person was seriously injured.

Shortly before midnight a dynamite bomb that had been placed in an ash can in the rear of the hallway at No. 35 Stanton street exploded with great force and knocked a hole two feet square in the floor above the cellar. The eighteen families in the five-story tenement house became excited, and many rushed to the street in their night clothes.

The ground floor is occupied by Gardina Gurel, who has a grocery store on the south side of the entrance to the stairs, while L. Finkelstein has a painters' supplies store on the upper side. Neither store was much damaged.

Inspector Owen Egan, of the Bureau of Combustibles, was returning from the scene of another bomb explosion when he heard a dull report. He went to police headquarters and asked if another explosion had been reported. Inquiries were made at all the police precincts, but there had not been any report. A few minutes later word was received from the 5th street station that there had been an explosion in the Stanton street house.

A bomb was exploded in Oliver street at 1:40 o'clock this morning, when the doorways on the ground floors of Nos. 53 and 55 were torn into a mass of splinters. Plate glass windows in both doorways were shattered in thousands of pieces and sent hurtling across the street, there to smash windows as high as the fifth floor in the thickly populated Italian tenements.

Antico Forno, who conducts a bakery and yeast shop at No. 53, told Sergeant Conlon, of the Oak street station, that he had been having trouble with other bakers in the neighborhood because he insisted upon beginning the day's work before 3 o'clock every morning. In violation of an agreement between Italian bakers, last week, Forno said, his chimney had been tampered with in an attempt to blow up his shop.

Colangelo Indelico, owner of a china store at No. 187 Elizabeth street, on the ground floor, was seriously cut and bruised last night when he started to investigate what he thought was a small fire on the cellar steps below his shop. Instead of a fire, it was the sputtering of a bomb Indelico saw, and when it went off he was blown fifteen feet.

A dynamite bomb, exploded in the hallway of the five-story brick tenement house at No. 758 Eighth avenue at 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning, shattered every window in the building, wrecked the concrete flooring of the hallway and blew part of the wall away. The detonation was heard at the Brooklyn Bridge and far up in Harlem.

The police found that the bomb had been placed about fifteen feet in from the front of the hallway of the building, which is at about the middle of the block, between 46th and 47th streets. The wall on the north side of the hall was blown into the barber shop of Frank Ladalo, wrecking three large mirrors and breaking down the marble slabs that bounded them.

MRS. PANKHURST FOILS DETECTIVES

Escapes by Clever Ruse from Her Closely Invested Home, and Is Now in a Place Unknown.

DECOY PLOT WORKS WELL

Woman Heavily Veiled Leaving Her Flat Draws Off Police, and When the Latter Return Bird Has Flown.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)

London, July 21.—Mrs. Pankhurst has again eluded the police, and has this time escaped to some place unknown, as a result of a decoy plot. Detectives who went to arrest Mrs. Pankhurst found they had seized the wrong woman.

After addressing a suffragette meeting at the Pavilion Music Hall a week ago, and evading an attempt made on that occasion to arrest her, Mrs. Pankhurst was taken back to the flat in Westminster which she has made her home since her release from prison under the "cat and mouse" act. For the last week the flat has been under the closest police observation, and two officers on duty shortly after 11 o'clock on Saturday night were surprised to see a number of well known suffragette assembly outside the building. Their suspicion that an attempt was to be made to remove Mrs. Pankhurst was strengthened when a taxicab drove up and one of the organizers of the Women's Social and Political Union stepped from the machine.

A few minutes later a number of persons appeared in the entrance to the flat. In the centre was some one who was heavily veiled and supported by a friend on either side. She was the exact figure of the militant leader, and the officers stepped forward to arrest her, but were instantly surrounded by a crowd of women who tried to keep them from reaching the veiled woman.

The detectives had to whistle for help, and a number of constables arrived. At last the detectives got the woman into a cab and ordered the driver to proceed to Holloway Jail. The cab had nearly reached Charing Cross, when the woman remarked: "I am not Mrs. Pankhurst," and one of the officers immediately removed the veil which covered her face.

Her statement proved correct. She was not Mrs. Pankhurst nor any one resembling her facially, and as the officers had no right to detain her she was permitted to go.

Within half an hour the detectives reappeared and resumed their investigation of the premises. In the mean time, however, the flat had remained unguarded, and slowly it began to dawn on the police that they had been hoodwinked. Such was the fact, Mrs. Pankhurst had disappeared.

Birmingham, England, July 20.—A large house at Selly Oak, a suburb, was discovered ablaze this morning and was practically destroyed before the firemen arrived. The usual suffragette placards were found. The building was recently utilized as a home for orphan girls, but was being renovated for a new tenant.

LINER DODGES 60 WHALES

"Hard a-Port!" Saves Prinz Sigismund from Collision.

Sixty whales playing in the path of the steamer Prinz Sigismund forced the helmsman to veer the vessel quickly and sharply yesterday afternoon off Sea Girt, N. J., in order to avoid a collision.

The Prinz Sigismund was coming up the coast to New York from South American ports, when the officer of the watch saw directly ahead a seething mass of black. He threw his wheel hard to port and at the same time signalled the engineer to reverse the engines.

The ship answered the helm just in time to avoid running down the whales, which scampered off seaward.

Some of the passengers counted sixty, but the watch officer says he saw more than that number.

PRIEST SENT TO PRISON

Confesses to Arson—Act Cost One Man His Life.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)

La Rochelle, July 20.—Father Landrais, who was curate of this parish, has been sentenced to sixteen years' hard labor for having set fire to the parish house in order to get the insurance money. The fire happened about four months ago, during a very windy night, and it caused the death of an old man who had been attached to the parish for more than thirty-five years. It took several hours of hard work on the part of the firemen to control the flames.

Later it was discovered that the priest had bought a large quantity of kerosene, and after a grilling investigation he confessed his crime.

DIES AS SHE PRAYS IN CHURCH.

While praying in the Roman Catholic Church of St. John the Baptist, at Wiloughby and Lewis avenues, Brooklyn, last evening, Alice Curran, twenty-three years old, of No. 1003 DeKalb avenue, dropped dead from heart disease. Other worshippers, who thought the woman had fainted, carried her into the vestry, but when Dr. Pierce arrived from the Rushwick Hospital in an ambulance he said that she was dead.

BRYAN CANCELS LECTURES

Cuts Out Three Days This Week to Confer Over Mexico.

Warsaw, Ind., July 20.—Secretary Bryan of the State Department made two addresses to-day to crowds at the Winona Chautauqua grounds. He announced that his speaking dates for next Thursday, Friday and Saturday had been cancelled to enable him to return to Washington to confer with Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson and President Wilson upon the Mexican question.

"The conference is expected to take place on Friday," Mr. Bryan said, "but I am willing to return to my duties at any moment my presence may be needed."

The Secretary received no compensation for the speeches he made to-day, the crowds being admitted free. In one of his addresses the Secretary said: "I do not object to people objecting. I have found in my experience that people will find fault no matter what a man does, whether it is good or bad."

A letter sent to Secretary Bryan yesterday by Arch Selwyn, managing director of the "Within the Law" companies, is as follows:

"If the newspapers are correct in quoting you as saying that your salary as Secretary of State is insufficient, that you are therefore compelled to add to your income by outside work, I beg leave to offer you a position that will pay you twice as much as the United States government and which will call for your undivided attention in other words, I offer you $24,000 a year as chief publicity promoter of 'Within the Law.'"

"The position is one of importance and, like your present 'high office' of world-wide influence. The position is one that will call for the highest quality of intellect and resourcefulness, the combination for which we are willing to pay a good living wage."

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)

Pittsburgh, July 20.—The Rev. Dr. E. Edward Young, of Brooklyn, in an interview to-day declared that the Secretary of State, W. J. Bryan, could not live on his salary. He said that Mr. Bryan was justified in besting if he saw fit, but he thought that the Secretary should sacrifice the revenue of the lecture platform for the good of the nation.

Dr. Young suggested that if President Wilson undertook to persuade Mr. Bryan that he should abandon his lecture plans it might mean a break in the ranks of the Democratic party.

HAWTHORNE TO WALK HOME

Plans "Tramp" to New York to Get Himself in Shape.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)

Atlanta, July 20.—Anticipating his release on parole next week, Julian Hawthorne, the author and now an inmate of the federal prison here, is arranging a thousand mile "hike" to New York. Although sixty-seven years of age, Hawthorne is in excellent physical condition, and is confident that he will be able to make the trip on foot.

At present Hawthorne is getting in trim by walking around the prison walls again and again, going ten miles or more a day. He believes that in the walk to New York he will be able to readjust himself to the life from which he has been shut out for some time and get in trim for the literary work he expects to do. The author expects to utilize his experience in prison as material for a new book and for magazine articles.

Dr. W. P. Morton will probably be released at the same time, but he will take the train home.

TURKS RETAKE ADRIANOPLE

Troops Back in Ancient Moslem Capital After Short Conflict with Garrison of 2,000.

NEW FRONTIER CLAIMED

Rumanian Army Advances, Threatening Eastern Rumelia—Complete Collapse of Europe's Authority Indicated.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)
London, July 21.—A dispatch from Sofia to "The Times" says: "The Turks have entered Adrianople after a short conflict with a small Bulgarian defending force."

"The Bashibazouks are burning, pillaging and committing atrocities."

"Rumanian troops are advancing in an easterly direction, threatening Eastern Bulgaria. The events of the last few days indicate the complete collapse of the authority of Europe."

Telegraphing from Sofia on Sunday evening the correspondent of "The Daily Mail" says:

"The crisis has arrived. Thirty thousand Rumanian troops have reached Orhanli and Etropole, within forty miles of Sofia."

"Enver Bey, at the head of the Turkish cavalry, has arrived at Adrianople, where the Bulgarian garrison of 2,000 has received orders not to resist the Turks."

Constantinople, July 20.—The Sublime Porte has issued formal orders to the army to occupy Thrace and Adrianople.

In a note acquainting the powers with this decision it is announced that the new Turco-Bulgarian frontier will be the river Maritza. The Porte saddles Bulgaria with the responsibility of any fighting that may ensue.

The Porte's note is regarded as foreshadowing a declaration of war against Bulgaria. This course has been discussed by the Council of Ministers as a means of enabling Turkey to recover her liberty of action, which was compromised by the London convention.

(By The Associated Press.)

London, July 21.—The advent of a new Bulgarian Cabinet, comprising a coalition of the Liberal groups, seems to have brought a prospect that peace negotiations will soon be entered into. After vain attempts to negotiate separately with Rumania, the Bulgarian government has accepted the advice of Austria and Russia and offered Rumania an important territorial concession. Bulgaria has also sent delegates to meet the Serbian and Greek, and presumably Rumanian, representatives, at Nish to negotiate an armistice and peace.

It is confirmed from Athens that Serbia, Greece and Montenegro are ready to participate in these negotiations. Turkey, however, has introduced a new complication, and has notified the European powers of her intention to make the Maritza River the new frontier, giving as her reasons that she has always claimed this frontier, but that the powers set the claim aside in order to facilitate and expedite peace; that the Porte would be prepared to settle the question by diplomatic means, but that the atrocities and vandalism of the Bulgarians in the occupied territories make it impossible to hope for a diplomatic settlement, and that new conditions arising from the last war between the allies make it doubly necessary for Turkey to secure a frontier guaranteeing safety to Constantinople and the Dardanelles.

The Porte promises not to cross the new Maritza frontier, and asks the powers' assistance in establishing it, so as to secure durable relations between Turkey and Bulgaria.

It is not considered likely, however, that Europe will permit the decisions of the London conference thus to be thrust aside.

Fighting of no great importance continues on the Greek and Serbian fronts. In a smart engagement to the north of Nevrokop the Greeks captured nine Bulgarian guns.

A Belgrade dispatch to "The Daily Telegraph" says that Premier Pashich has agreed to receive the Bulgarian delegates at Nish. It is probable that the Greek Premier, M. Venizelos, and a Rumanian delegate will also meet them. Peace, adds the dispatch, may be signed in three days.

A Bucharest dispatch to "The Daily Telegraph" says that Bulgaria has agreed to cede to Rumania the territory within the Turukal-Dobrich-Balchik line and the new strategic frontier now occupied by the Rumanian troops, and asks for the immediate withdrawal of the Rumanian army. Rumania refuses to agree to this until peace has been concluded between all the belligerents.

BULGARS MURDER 50,000 IN SOME FOUR MONTHS

Massacres in Serres Rival Nigriti Atrocities in Horror and Bestiality.

(By Cable to The Tribune.)

London, July 21.—There is published to-day a further record of the savage barbarity of the Bulgarian troops in Macedonia. The correspondent in Demirhisar of "The Daily Telegraph" describes Serres, a town of some 50,000
